

Ken Lindeman
Florida Institute of Technology

Ken Lindeman is a professor and Sustainability Program Chair at Florida Institute of Technology. We use emerging science to advance the management of coastal habitats, fisheries, and climate policy. Started first NGO in 1989, worked with many since in addition to private and government sectors. Publications in 18 journals and coauthored Smithsonian Inst. Press and Duke Univ. Press books. Past or current member of SAFMC Snapper Grouper AP, Habitat AP, IPT, EBM document writing teams, and IUCN specialist groups working on climate planning.